

Moving Beyond the Lectern:

Bridging science and practice
toward better policy design

Scientist-Practitioner Dialogue

Calls for scientists to communicate and share their research in a more accessible manner with policymakers and the public have been growing. Bridging the divide between policy science and policy practice through collaboration and learning can advance knowledge critical to mitigate contemporary environmental and societal challenges.

In this panel, policy scholars and a policy practitioner will engage in a dialogue to foster a shared understanding of how they evaluate policy design to pursue scientific and practical aims. These interactions provide avenues to craft more scientifically robust, practical, and politically palatable policies.

WHEN

Friday, Oct. 23, 2020

12:00 - 1:15 p.m. EDT (NY)

WHERE

Zoom link provided to confirmed participants

RSVP

Please register here

Dr. Saba Siddiki
Syracuse University

Dr. Matia Vannoni
Kings College London

Scott Emery
M.S. Hall & Associates

This event is sponsored by the

[Institutional Grammar
Initiative \(IGRI\)](#)